I'm not holding back on purpose. Just busy this week. Had to go to Anchorage. Putting together my work budget for the coming year and didn't have much time for anything else.

As I said in another email. I'll call you in the morning.

Ellen I have not heard from you. Are you going to be President? what about your other board member? do we have the same goals?. to get everything legal. get the ajv process finished. I have some ideas on getting more shareholders involved.

I think everyone should be invited to participate, its not like were getting paid. I have allot ideas on getting everyone involved. my main goal in all of this: make sure that one group or one person cant take control of the board without a shareholder consensus. one way or another we will get everything in order. you are the one person who can step up and make things happen. I think we should get everything agreed upon before these meetings. I don't think we need a teleconference meeting. We could have a system that anyone can propose something and then vote on it. with the internet it is much easier. You have some great ideas. (when you share them).
